FY21 Ask: $100 million

nonprofit infrastructure funding is a win-win-win.

New York State relies on nonprofits to deliver essential programs in communities – everything from childcare to senior services. Yet most State contracts do not cover the full cost of running these critical programs. Nonprofits getting by on underfunded contracts do not have the extra funds to address their crumbling infrastructure and outdated technology. Providing funding to address long-needed improvements will allow programs to have increased community impact while reducing their environmental footprints.

We urge the State to bring back the Nonprofit Infrastructure Capital Investment Fund (NICIP) with a recurring investment of $100 million and open eligibility to publicly owned spaces operated by nonprofits. This will ensure better access to critical services and greener programs across the State.
